Well, the classes are going to be online for a long time. Interaction between the students and teachers must motivate students to work harder. Of course, teachers will be honest in reporting student information to the college but the college cannot understand what the students are going through behind the screens. And feedback from students in the structure of ticking off happiness quotient from a google form is not the answer. The extra curricular activities in the college has suffered a major setback with online education being given the first priority. There was little or no effort to develop the emotional, physical , cultural and artistic development of the student. The sole focus was on completing the syallabus and enhancing the growth of brain cells with equations , accounts and literature. What the students were going through- with adaptation to the new normal and an isolated environment to not let off steam was ignored. Of course, others - employees, students, parents worldwide faced a similar crisis, but I am speaking as a GCM student . The primary purpose of a Government college is to make a student independant, but there is a fine line of difference between making a student self-sufficient and letting the students fend for themselves. The third year students of the batch 2018-2021 had an opportunity to witness how equipped the college was to adapt to change. The standard of education was not compromised at the providing end. But the standards of excellence fell very poorly in all the other areas.
Add more facilities to canteen and toilet.
